User manual

1. Introduction

The purpose of this guide is to explain the user how to play, the available options and the requirements needed to start a game.

2. Fighter selection

The first step to start a game is to select your fighter, there are many of them, but they all fall into three categories:

- Humans: The most balanced type of unit.
- Dwarfs: They are incredibly powerful but lack speed and agility.
- Elves: The fastest and most agile units but the weakest.

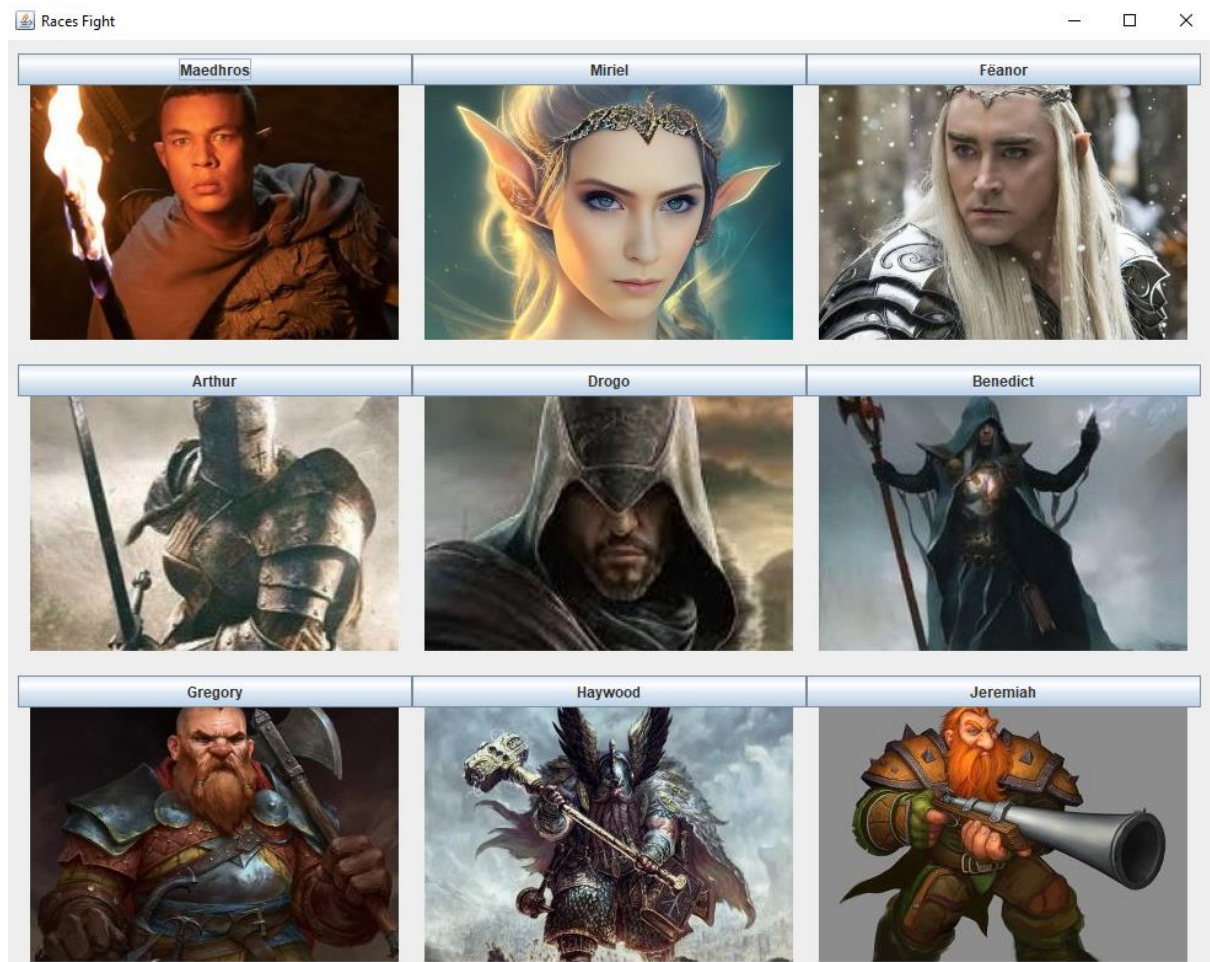

User manual

Here there are the stats of every race:

Race	Health points	Power	Defence	Agility	Speed
Dwarf	60	6	4	5	3
Human	50	5	3	6	5
Elf	40	4	2	7	7

Each one of those categories has their own weapons so not every character can choose every weapon.

Once the fighter has been selected, we must choose its weapon.

3. Weapon selection

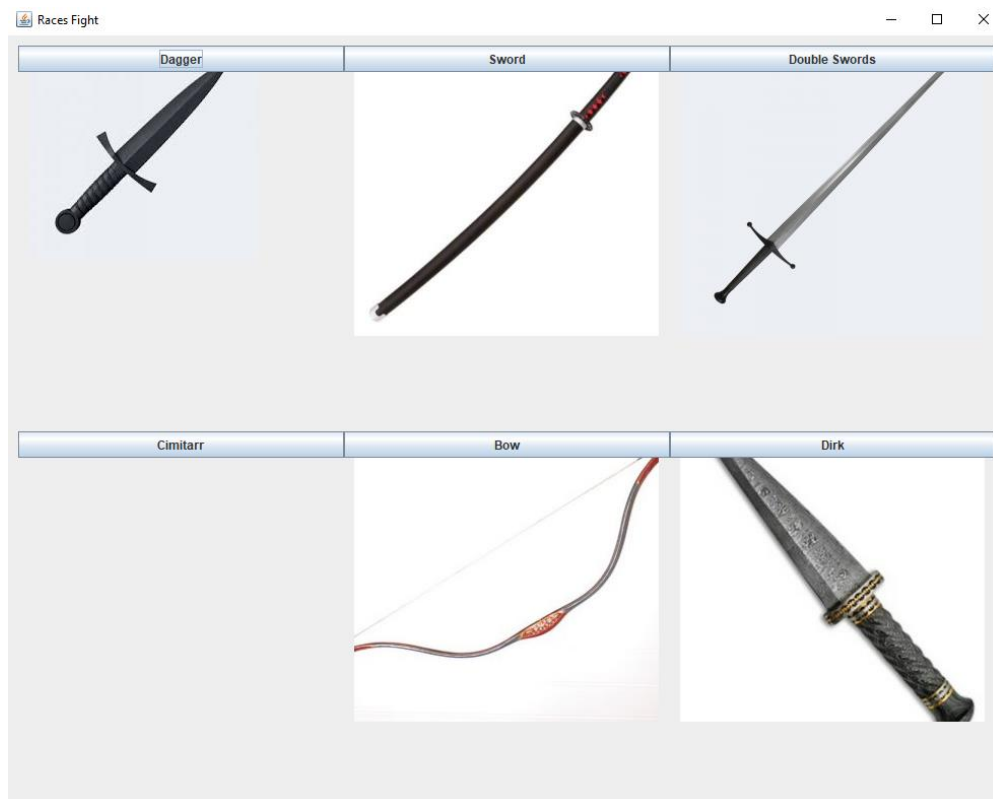

The next step is choosing the weapon. Every weapon has its own advantages.

Here there are the weapons and its stats:

Weapon	Description	Wearer
Dagger	+ 3 Speed	Human and elf
Sword	+ 1 Speed, + 1 Power	Human, elf and dwarf
Axe	+ 3 Power	Human and dwarf
Double swords	+ 2 Speed, + 2 Power	Human and elf
Scimitar	+ 2 Speed, + 1 Power	Human and elf
Bow	+ 5 Speed, + 1 Power	Elf
Katana	+ 3 Speed, + 1 Power	Human
Dirk	+ 4 Speed	Human, elf and dwarf
Two handed axe	+ 5 Power	Dwarf

As said before, depending on the fighter you choose, there are different weapons available:

4. Fight

Now it's time to fight. The enemy fighter is going to be a random character with a random weapon (of its own class).

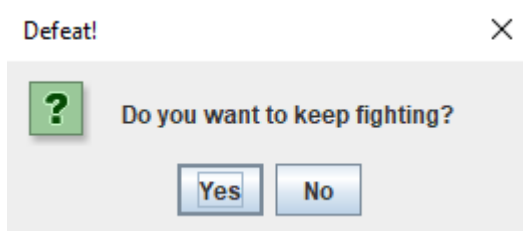

To play just play fight, depending on the fighter stats it will either miss or hit. If the character hits, there is also a chance that the other fighter dodges the attack.

If you kill the enemy you can play again with the same character against another opponent or exit the game.

If you lose and you want to play again, you must choose fighter and weapon again.

5. Frequent errors

You must choose a warrior first

This error happens when you try to choose weapon without a warrior selected.

You must choose a warrior and a weapon

This error happens when you try to play without a warrior and a weapon selected.
